The Motor Insurance Database (M.I.D)

A timely reminder

With the police using their power to make more and more roadside seizures of vehicles that do not appear on the Motor Insurance Database it is now more important than ever that clients, agents and underwriters alike are at the top of their game. It is evident that clients will clearly attempt to pass on any fines or costs incurred where they feel they have not been informed fully as to their duties.

Since the Database came into force THB have been able to provide a checklist to our agents of procedures and this has recently been improved to provide you with more immediate and specific details on each new business case placed.

In most instances the responsibility for providing the minimum information to populate and update the Database falls squarely with the client or their agent, if you offer this service, whether by way of an email or directly using the official website.

If you are in any doubt as to the requirements then please contact us.

The Corporate Manslaughter Act

As you may have read defence costs relating to the above Act is a developing situation and the matter of great debate in some areas as to where this coverage should be placed. If you have any questions regarding this matter please address them to our administrators on a case by case basis to ensure that we are able to provide you with the most up to date information at all times.

Commercial - Leisure Business

Following the announcement by Leisure specialist, SLE, that they will no longer be writing any new business or renewals from 30th September 2008, we would like to remind you that we have access to a London market that specialises in underwriting leisure business.
